“After 15 years in the construction industry in the United States and a brief stint in the mines in Western Australia, I decided to enrol in the MBA program at MGSM to help me segue into the next leg of my career journey. I have always had a passion for environmental solutions to our global concerns and have been very interested in the growing renewable energy sector.

When I learned of the internship opportunity at Solar Analytics, I jumped at the chance to get involved. I was very excited to be a part of the fast-paced, agile environment of this tech start-up and gained incredible exposure across the business. I found the skills and knowledge gained from the MBA program to be very useful as I endeavoured to add value to the business. During the course of the busy four days a week internship placement, I learned a great deal and was pleased to be offered a full-time role as the Marketing Technology Manager.”
